APRIL 26.—We have no change to report in the market; the offerings are very light and composed of inferior grades. The seasons have been very bad for handling, and the receipts are small; the season is rapidly approaching when tobacco will be ordered for shipment, and we advise our friends that there never was a time when it required more close attention. For example, its portion and wisting, to not private. ion. Be careful in sorting and prizing; do not prizi tion. Be careful in Sorting and prining, do not prize too heavy; the crop is generally thin, but has gum, and heavy pressure will cause the crop to tear in sampling. LYNCHBURG TOBACCO MARKET. APRIL 25.—The unfavorable weather for marketing tobacco continues, and the receipts in consequence were very light during the past week. There is considerable animation in the market. The common grades are more active and prices somewhat advanced. The more desirable tobaccos are still sought for, and often sell at figures beyond our quotations.
